

CIRCLE

Circle Talk

Can be used for:

- Introduce general topics, discussion, problem solving or decision making
 - A talking circle bring individuals together to teach, listen and share
 - Have members listen with whole ears and hearts
 - Use I statements to express thoughts and opinions
 - All comments are addressed to question or topic of discussion, not to member in circle
 - Whomever is speaking is to share bravely and authentically (speak from the heart)

CIRCLE TALK

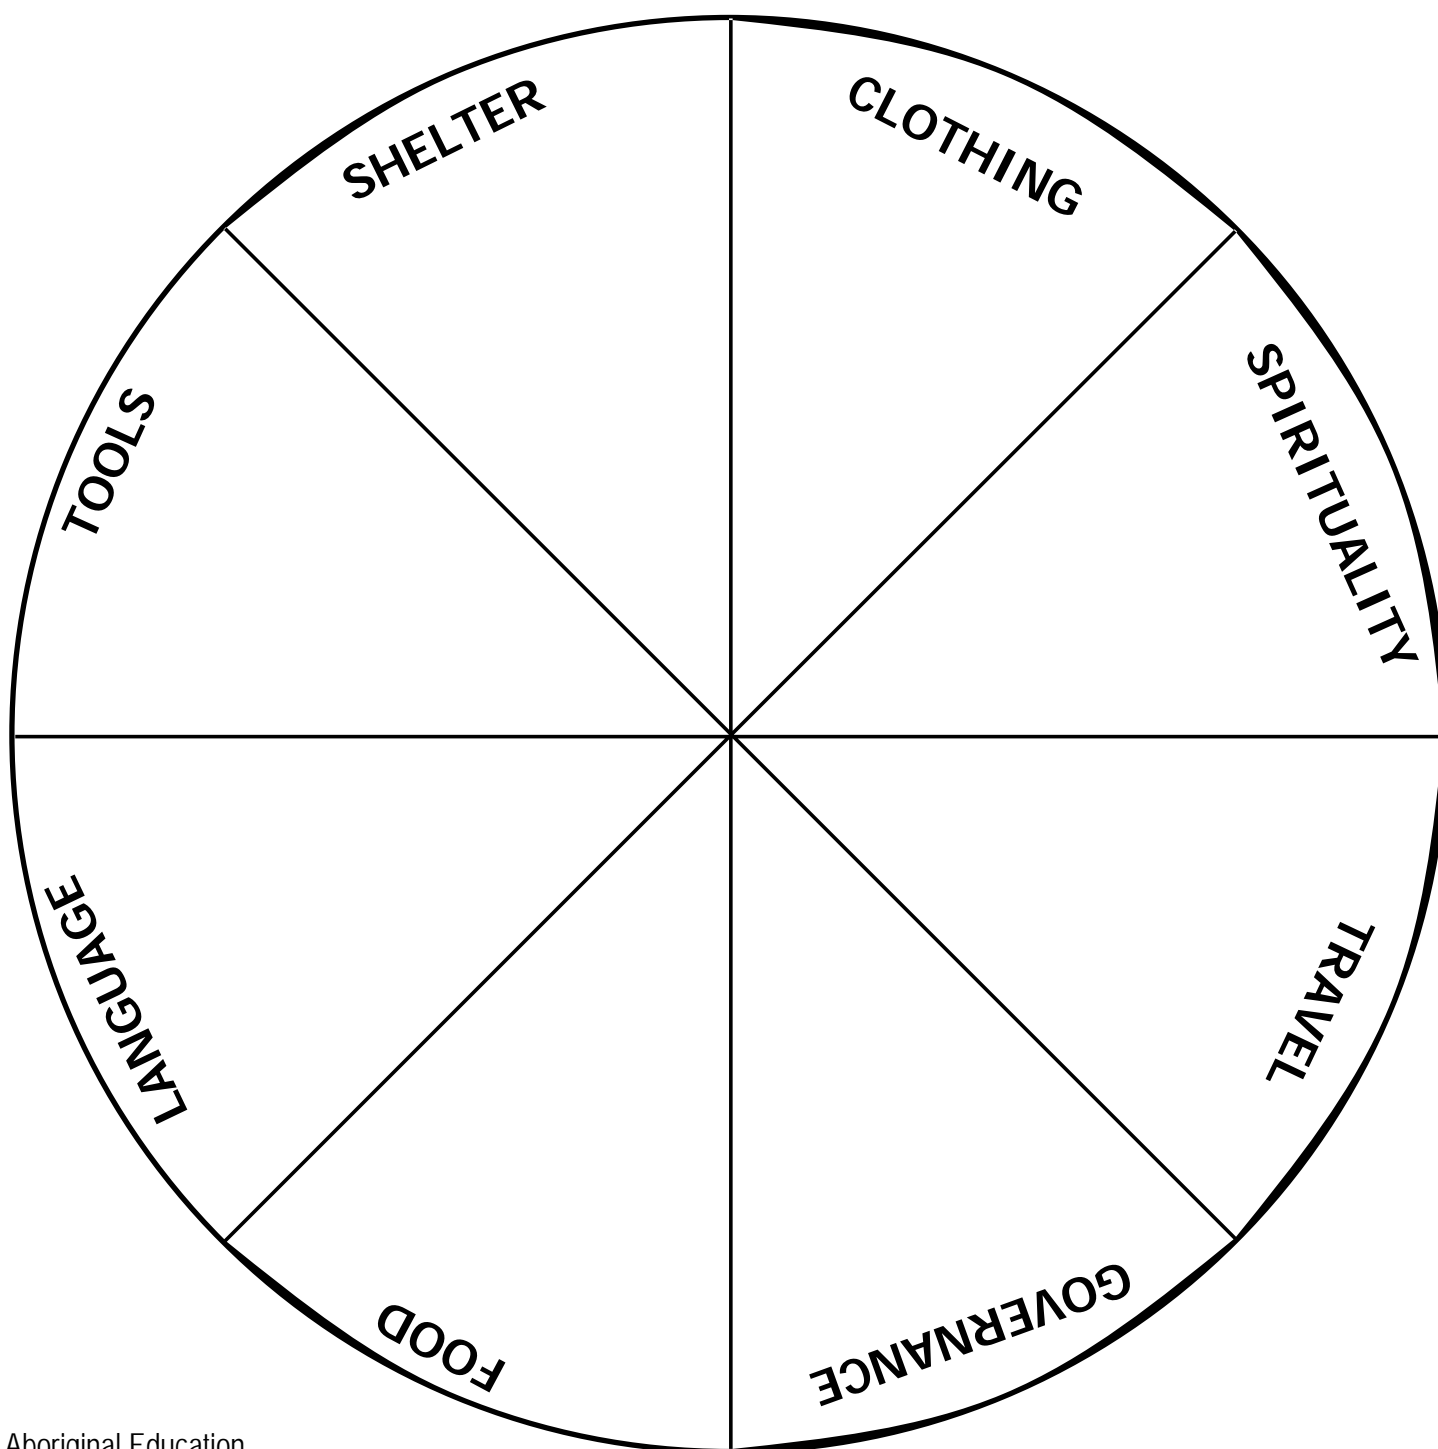

Group meets in a circle configuration

- The protocol is to go in a clockwise direction
- Only one person speaks at a time
- Everyone must feel invited to participate
(Everyone else listens in a non-judgemental way).
- A person speaks until finished; being respectful of time
- A person may pass, however they may speak later after everyone in circle has an opportunity to speak
- Is extremely respectful of what everyone has to say
- No one is interrupted during the whole group discussion
- All contribute equally to dynamics of the group
- It is better to hold circles in groups of up to 20 participants

/The social configuration allows each individual to retain own unique identity, but can also allow to have access to resource in the circle.
